Dr. Mathesius, who will be honored with an honorary doctor of science degree, was born in Germany and received his technical training in the Institute of Technology in Berlin, which awarded him a doctor of engineering degree in 1911. He came to the U. S. that year and continued the practical training he had received in the iron and steel industry in Germany.

He rose through various positions in American corporations until in 1933 he became manager of operations, Chicago district, for the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co. The climax of the program will be "The Swan Dance" from the opera "Prince Igor" by Alexander Borodin. This colorful work will be performed by the chorus with Alfred Watts and Bonnie Moeck, two highlighting the performance of the spirited two-piano accompaniment.

Graduate Changes Announced By VA Office

Students who are waiting to begin classes this spring under the G. I. Bill and who plan to do graduate work in the fall, should file applications with the Veterans Administration now. Information received from the VA.

In applying for graduate G. I. Bill standing before they receive their degree, V.A. added, they will be permitted to go ahead with their studies this fall, even though the July 25 cut-off date for starting G. I. courses will have passed.

Regulations Told For Graduating Seniors

All seniors who intend to graduate June 4 must call at the registrar's office at once to pick up their O. K. slips. These slips are to be taken to all classes and signed by the teachers, and then returned to the registrar by May 30 if the student is to graduate.

These are the final clearance cards which show that the graduate is leaving in good standing and has been properly checked out with his instructors.

Russian Film Showing Set For Tomorrow

Showing of "The Magic Horse," an animated Russian cartoon with English subtitles, is scheduled for Friday May 25, at 7 p.m. The film is based on one of the favorite "folk" or Russian folk tales which have been handed down by word of mouth for generations. It is the story of a small boy and his beloved companion, a tiny sun-lucked horse with magical powers. "The Magic Horse" is a delightful fairy tale told in music and verse.

Summer Term Sign-up Set Saturday

Registration for the summer quarter at Brigham Young University will be held Saturday, May 26, in the Joseph Smith auditorium.

The sign-up previously had been announced for June 11, but that date will still be open for non-resident students those who must travel long distances, and late signups.

The move will put BYU in line with most universities of the nation in a policy of registering resident students near the end of each quarter rather than waiting until the beginning of each quarter.

Advantages Listed

Dr. Wesley P. Lloyd, dean of students and director of new transfers, pointed out several advantages of the new system:

1. Early signing of resident students will avoid the usual rush of mass registrations.
2. The early enrollment figures will give the administration a guide for advance preparation.
3. Instructors already acquainted with the student's work will better guide him into further study.

Vacations Reduced
"Education never stops at Brigham Young," Dean Lloyd said. "BYU was one of the earliest proponents of continuous education, and was one of the first to inaugurate the summer quarter."

ONCE A YEAR—As the annual Banyan is distributed, this office in the press building becomes the center of campus interest. Staff members handed out 2250 copies of the publication, next highest in the history of the school.

Delta Phi 'Machine' Drops From Active Campus Politics

When the time comes that the church's missionary program can't take a little good-natured ribbing, it won't be long until the missionaries start wearing collared shirts. A classic is Matthew Cowley's "The spirit of the Lord is with this church. If it wasn't, the missionaries would have walked it long ago."

No one is offended by wise-cracks about conservative clothes, the "weaving" of the weekly letters, trouting without purpose or scrip. The elders themselves get the biggest laugh from them.

But this year has seen the growth of a continually unfortunate attitude towards returned missionaries, and particularly toward their organization on campus, Delta Phi.

Their much talked-of but non-existent "political machine" is a hubbub which has virtually forced former elders to apologize for being returned missionaries. And this at a school whose avowed purpose is along missionary lines.

The Delta Phi fraternity has about 120 active members. That is about 2 1/2 per cent of the studentbody, hardly enough to "fix" or "swing" an election. Yet, so strong was the feeling of resentment against the supposed "machine" that many capable and qualified students did not participate in the recent election, one which saw several studentbody, AMS and class officers walk into final voting virtually unopposed. And that is the close of a year boasting the largest studentbody in history.

In earlier years, Delta Phi's were older, more reserved. But at present, the majority of members are only two years older than their classmates. Most of them interpreted their college work to accept mission calls, then returned to complete their schooling.

Few will dispute the value of two years in the mission field as training in leadership activities, and it is only natural that men with interest and ability in student leadership, amplified by two years of wide experience, should seek activity here at BYU.

In the last year that Delta Phi enjoyed any political success, their student groups became suddenly aware that each of them could not support his own favorite, and there was "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth."

In all fairness, I should state that my position as editor was gained in that so-called landslide, and that I am still an active Delta Phi member.

However, I must voice the opinion that the participation of able, qualified and interested students from every group must be encouraged by a realization of student responsibilities, not prohibited by unjustified prejudice.

No group is more vigorously pledged to the standards of Brigham Young University and the church which sponsors it than Delta Phi. For such a group to remove themselves from realms of student politics to appease prejudice is cowardly, and altogether unfortunate.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Bühler

"Easy now, Floyd, easy. Hello, Professor Snarf, I thought I'd drop in and see how I did in the quiz. Easy, Floyd!"

It's Been Nice ...

The year just pasting has been a good one from the standpoint of Brigham Young University. Our football team had a fine record, we won the National Invitational Basketball tournament in New York; the Romans came out before the end of school, the UNIVERSITY returned to its All-American status after a year's absence and the Wayne magazine was very fine.

These are notable things, and we as students of the Y should feel very proud of the few things named. To add another I think that the plays produced here were very fine, and I DON'T care if Jon Shank doesn't agree with that.

But seriously, it has been a good year, and I am proud to have played my small part in making it what it was.

Scribe Tells of Year's Troubles, Fun

by Betty Ann Green

The tumult and the shouting dies

The seniors of the year depart

And in our heart one hope there lies—

That someday we will be as smart.

They leave, but not without a brief glance at the memorabilia of the past years. I'll never forget...

... Signing up for the Phys Ed class only to discover that it was a male gymnastic class.

... The delicious taste of wilderness when we had a party at a local off-campus pub.

... The open-spectator experience of watching had the studentbody descend the Scoville Building steps as I looked up from where I had unceremoniously sprawled.

... The deflated feeling after you've wasted an hour talking in the library to a dreamy fellow only to discover he is married.

... The morbid and dark entrance to College Hall where grimy skeletons about their corners of stuffed animals to unsuspecting players. Even the bravest found it hard to concentrate on the play in progress after having looked down the emptiness of a premarital grin.

The Turkish bath, qualities of the North Building and how the paper-thin partitions enabled one to hear three lectures at once. And how even one dainty pair of slits resembled like the Charge of the Light Brigade.

... The sickening realization that assignment two was due today and not next Monday.

... How it rained for a week when Film Censor presented "The Rain Came" and every one held their breath for fear they would shout "Typhoon" the next week.

... Noon classes in the Smith Building were made more difficult by tantalizing odors from the cafeteria wafting through the air.

... How you could spot a shirer either because he went around on crutches and a foot in a cast or because he spent most of the time standing up

"Easy now, Floyd, easy. Hello, Professor Snarf, I thought I'd drop in and see how I did in the quiz. Easy, Floyd!"

Music Department Inspires Campus With Concerts

by Laura Diehl

No doubt Y professors and students have shaken their heads in bewilderment many times upon seeing busloads of gleeful musicians gaily wave goodbye to campus life for a day, or two days, or even a week, as they left for concert tours of western states.

The concert tours are only a small part of life in the music department but they are an example of the long hours of work, the outstanding accomplishments, and the gay fellowship that has made the music department of Brigham Young University popular on the campus and respected in the nation.

way into a position among the leading organizations of their kind in the country. The outstanding quality of their performance has gained a favorable reputation for the school.

The Year Around

Music is an all-year occupation at the Y. The Summer Music festival each year is among the most outstanding in the nation. For these the department brings such important performers and teachers as the famous Paganini Quartet, and Simeon Belinson, probably the most noted clarinet teacher in the world.

Dr. Leon Dallin probably has composed more works which have been performed by important music organizations throughout the country than any other Utah composer. "The Promised Valley," a musical show by Crawford Gates dealing with the Mormon story has run two summers in Salt Lake City.

Calling all sports!

Tennis and Temple

During that summer he sang the part of Major General in the opera, "Pirates of Penzance," performed in band and chorus, placed first in the vocal contest, and won third place in tennis.

Following in the footsteps of many Y underclassmen, he married and fulfilled a mission in Germany before receiving his Bachelor's degree in 1935. Before returning to the Y from Germany, he studied one year at the State Academy of Music in Berlin under several of Germany's leading teachers.

Dr. Halliday taught on the staff of the music department, conducted choral organizations on campus and was assistant conductor of the Salt Lake Tabernacle choir before he went to the Eastman School of Music in 1938 to teach theory and complete work for a Ph.D.

Since returning to BYU in 1941 he has taught 41 quarters. During that time he was appointed acting dean of the college of fine arts for a year while Dr. de Jong was on leave of absence in South America, and was appointed head of the music department in 1948. He also has conducted both Concert Chorus and Concert Band.

Dance Course Outlined For Leader's Week

Dancers and those who teach dancing are invited to spend a week on the Brigham Young University campus to study with dance experts during annual Leadership Week slated for June 18-22, according to Dr. C. J. Hart, in charge of dance activities.

C. Vern Yates, widely known square dance instructor, Vyle Beljouis, famous Eastern folk dance expert, and Norma Rae Arrington, director of dance at BYU, will conduct their talents to busy participants a full five days of "the best in dance."

Folk dancing designed especially for adaptation to Mutual Improvement Association needs will be directed daily from 8 to 8:30 p.m. by Mr. Beljouis. At 9 a.m. daily Mr. Yates will take over with the square dance instruction. Afternoons from 2 to 3 p.m. will be filled with social dance geared to meet the needs of ward and stake dance directors.

According to Leadership Week officials, all who desire to participate in the dance section are asked to register before June 15 by writing to BYU Leadership Week. Those who attend all of the dance instruction sessions will be given a certificate of completion signed by the president of the university and the instructor.

No fees will be charged for Leadership Week courses and no college credit will be given.

Common Sense

by Gloria Walls

"Guess who this is?" queries an unfamiliar voice at the other end of the line. Trying to cover up your irritation you proceed to pry loose your unknown caller's identity.

This is but one example of bad telephone manners. You are usually aware of the importance of etiquette in face-to-face situations but frequently ignore consideration for others in telephone contacts. You feel safe because of distance. Rudeness over the wires tabs you again as "ill bred."

Never open a telephone conversation with, "Guess who?" Guessing games should be reserved for the parlor. Opening with a blunt, "Who is this?" gives an equally bad impression on the other end. Ask for the person you desire to speak with, revealing your identity with the inquiry, "This is Sammy Jones, may I speak with Bill Smith?"

Once you begin your conversation, cut it short. Perhaps the other person has dinner guests waiting or was cut short in the middle of a shower. Consider his time by taking care of the business quickly and then hanging up. It is the caller's responsibility to close the conversation. Endless chitchat is unnecessary and a menace to any telephone line. Save your social catchup for personal meetings.

Seven out of every 100 telephone calls are wrong numbers. Check on your number before you phone. You will be saving your time as well as the time of the answering party and the telephone operator.

Another time saving device is to allow time for the party to answer. Hanging up after the first two rings doesn't give Sammy a chance to come in the house from mowing the lawn. Six rings is a reasonable length of time to wait for an answer.

Additional patience and tolerance is required for your on party lines. "Do unto others..." is the rule for this phase of tele-etiquette. This applies for clicking the receiver when wishing to pick the line. Many times this practice antagonizes the other person to extend his call rather than limit it. Think of the other party by cutting your own calls short.

In the case of emergencies you may cut into a conversation and request that the parties hang up while you make the urgent call. The persons involved should do so without questioning. Listening in to their conversation is another well-known taboo.

When the party you are calling is not at home leave a message for him to call you. If you desire to ask for information or ask a favor, it is more polite to say, "I'll call again." Don't refuse to give your name. The refusal only arouses curiosity.

The tone of your voice is also important in tele-etiquette. Put a smile in your "hello." A gruff well what-do-you-want tone makes the other person wish he hadn't called. Because you can't see the facial expression of your party makes graciousness even more necessary. A pleasant "Hello Sammy, how are you?" will long be remembered by your caller.

Faculty Award Students For Outstanding Activity

Several of the awards presented in last week's assembly had to be omitted in the list published in the UNIVERSE because of limited space. Following is a listing of those that were left out.

Journalism awards included the Foran Green award presented to Earl Henderson, Oklahoma City, Okla.; and the Deseret News professional internship awarded to Lorry Rytting, Tremonton.

In music, the Sauton-Adams stringed instrument award was presented to Helen Jean Jones, Provo; the class of 1910 vocal award was given to Carolyn Thompson, Malta, Ida.; the Taylor piano award went to Paul Christensen, Payson; the de Jong organ award went to Donna Nelson, Phoenix, Ariz.; and the Hallday band award was presented to Earl Johnson, Rigby, Ida.

Five P. E. Awards

Five awards were given in women's physical education. The Perry Mansfield dance award went to Marilyn Merrill, Provo. Recognition for outstanding service went to Geniel Thornton, American Fork; Dorothy Cranmer, Springville; Lois Christensen, Brigham City; and Margaret Hansen, Salt Lake City.

Radio recognition included four KSL awards given to Simon Nelson, Mercer Island, Wash.; Brandt Curtis, Solomonsville, Ariz.; Dorene Merrill, Lethbridge, Canada; and Mitz Hoki, Murray.

Lynne Richards, Spring Canyon, former president of the Wyoming Branch, was presented the Flora Sunberg award in religious education.

The Sigma Xi award went to Paul H. Carroll, Provo.

In speech activity, Tau Kappa Alpha awards went to Ray Duffin, Tooele, and Leonard Rowley, Parowan, for outstanding forensic activity; The Mask Club award went to Geneva Call, Las Vegas, Nev.; the Rotary Oratorical award went to Ray Gleave, Anselma.

HANG IT ALL! When you want to cut the conversation short the other party just won't hang up. Tel-etiquette is just common sense, says Althea Sylvester, Elsinore. Cut short your long telephone conversations and save your socializing for a personal meeting.

Rides Too ...

Y Coed Named To Reign As Queen of Rodeo

When Colorado rodeo gets underway on August 1st, a pretty BYU coed will be reigning as queen, according to the Ski-Hi Stampede committee of Monte Vista, Colo.

Betty Jane Johnson, Sanford, Colo., a junior student majoring in elementary education, was chosen Miss Stampede for 1951, after riding in the rodeo for four years as a maid of honor.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johnson, her father a Colorado rancher, Miss Johnson has a big summer ahead for her, including appearances at Frontier Days in Cheyenne, Wyo., and the Colorado State Fair in Pueblo, Colo.

As guest of honor, she will reign over an all-valley tour, kickoff banquet, chuckwagon dinner, parade, and will lead the grand entry each of the three nights of the rodeo.

Miss Johnson is a music minor, and plays the piano and organ.

Many Successes Mark Close Of '51 Sports

The 1950-'51 school year is within a few's whisker of being history. We can look back on another year of athletic endeavor, achievement and advancement at Brigham Young University with pride.

A great basketball team brought national recognition to the school, state, and church. A new million dollar fieldhouse has been erected to make the athlete's future at BYU a touch of celestialism. Cougar athletes have performed throughout the United States, and in Hawaii and South America.

Following the basketball successes, a Cougar football team bounced back from a disastrous eleven game losing streak of the year before to win four games including a victory over Utah State and a sensational tie with the University of Utah. This spring prospects look better than they have in many years. Coach Altemus has done an excellent rebuilding job.

In all of the spring sports, BYU has been right up with the leaders, and this week-end they will be in the thick of the fight for conference honors.

Diamond Jubilee Plates Available As Grad Gifts

Only a limited number of Diamond Jubilee plates are still available. It was announced today by the chairman of the Jubilee plate committee.

Plates will be featured during commencement week and will be available as souvenirs for graduates. Plates are now being sold at the special price of $2.50, plus mailing charges if they are to be mailed.

West Holds Power Edge In Track Extravaganza; Utes Favored by Whisker

The University of Utah will be cyclish favorites to repeat triumph of the track and field sport this Saturday in Salt Lake City as the best from the East tangles with the best in the West in the conference showdown. Montana, another Western Division entry, and Wyoming and Colorado A&M from the east side should push the meet right to the final event before the winner is decided.

One of the highlights of the meet will be the opportunity of fans on this side to see Wyoming's great Mickey Dunn in action. He's veritably a one-man track team as evidenced by last week's Eastern Division play-off. He romped home first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, both hurdle races, the broad jump, and led for first in the high jump. This netted 27½ points for the Wyoming cause and enabled them to edge out Colorado A&M by two points.

Comparing marks from both the Eastern and Western meets, the edge is definitely in the West but observers say that the eastern teams were hot at their best so not too much can be judged from it.

Even comparative times, BYU doesn't look capable of grabbing any first places in the track events, but should get a few seconds and thirds in the field events, things look just as dim.

To shrink the field down to a manageable number, trials will be held Friday in all the dashes, sprints, shot, and javelin.

FIRST TO TEST ACOUSTICS OF NEW FIELDHOUSE—Yell King Farrell McKinney and assistant noisemakers Earl Bartholomew and Harold Dunford inspect new wraps.

A Fieldhouse at Last ...

Cougar Yell Leaders For '52 To Have 'New Home'

Next year's Cougar yell leaders will show their spirit in a brand new home. Farrell McKinney, Harold Dunford and Earl Bartholomew will be the first cheer leaders to operate in the fieldhouse, and they are really thrilled about it.

Yell king Farrell McKinney was originally from Los Angeles, but later moved to Utah, where he graduated from North Sanpete High School.

Farrell had two years experience during high school, and won an "S" award for outstanding service.

Born in Bloomington, Ida., Harold Dunford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Dunford now residing at 790 West 7 North, Provo. Harold is also a freshman this year, and looks forward to the new year in the fieldhouse. He was a cheerleader during his senior year at Provo High.

The Third Man
The third member of the triumvirate is Earl Bartholomew, who was born and raised in Alexandria, Minn. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bartholomew, Sr. The 18-year-old frosh has had three years as a yell leader.

Sportraits

(This is another in a series of features of former BYU athletes who have become members of the coaching staff or faculty.)

Dr. Wesley F. Lloyd, dean of students, lettered in three sports at Brigham Young University during the three years 1924-27. He was a member of the basketball squad which won the Rocky Mountain championship one year and the state championship three years. Also, during his undergraduate days, Dean Lloyd performed at end on the football team and ran the hurdles in the cinder sport.

Dr. Lloyd accepted athletics as an important part of a well-rounded educational program, but never once did it interfere with his academic and administrative ambitions.

Prior to his enrollment at BYU, Dr. Lloyd attended high school in St. Anthony, Ida., and was graduated from LDS high school in Salt Lake City.

In 1934 he received his master's degree from BYU and his Ph.D. from Chicago University in 1937 on a scholarship and research fellowship.

Dr. Lloyd returned to BYU in 1937 as Chairman of the Department of Philosophy of Education and Guidance and Dean of Men. In 1945 he assumed his present position as Dean of Students.

Dean Lloyd's avid interest in the athletic program at Brigham Young University has been noticeably evidenced by his active leadership and participation in the fieldhouse fund drive. A great deal of the success of the drive to date is a direct result of his sustaining efforts.

From BYU student and athlete and international repute, Dr. and international repute. Dr. Lloyd has just recently been given one of the highest of educational appointments. The American Government has appointed him to head six prominent American educators in a mission to Japan to establish a Counseling and Guidance Institute for faculty members of Japanese universities.

Dean Lloyd is not leaving Brigham Young University. No force could move him from here. He has simply been granted a year's leave of absence to further the educational program of Japan.

Dr. Lloyd is a former bishop of the Provo Seventh Ward, and has always been active in church affairs. Weighing his life as a whole—these spiritual, recreational and academic experiences have well fitted him for any responsibility of educational leadership.

An English professor at the University of North Carolina was rumbling about about emotional meanings in certain words.

"Take the word lady," he said, "It used to mean something firm, but now since some women of disparate have termed themselves ladies, the word has come to mean someone with a false front."—ACP.
